Shin Yeh Taiwanese Cuisine

Complimentary seasonal dessert

Traditional Taiwanese Taste as a Modern Cuisine

Shin Yeh Taiwanese Cuisine got its start in 1977 in Taipei on ShuangCheng Street and was the founding brand of the restaurant group. The natural terrain of Taiwan, being a mountainous island, provides food ingredients that are incredibly flavorful, juicy and fresh. Shin Yeh features the natural flavors as it composes masterpiece delicacies. When local people taste what they grew up eating, their childhood memories spring to life. In addition to small, cold side-dishes, specialty rice porridges and many home-style flavors from the street transformed into restaurant dishes, there are now Shin Yeh signature must-taste dishes such as Fried Pork Liver, Traditional Sweet and Sour Pork Ribs, Braised River Eel, and after-dinner Almond Tofu, Almond Tea, Glutinous Rice and other classic Taiwanese dishes. Over the past 40 years, Shin Yeh has grown alongside the people of Taiwan and relentlessly exerted itself in Taiwanese cuisine. It has become not only what overseas Chinese miss deeply, but also the preferred restaurant for our foreign friends visiting Taiwan. 《MICHELIN Guide Taipei 2019 The Plate》 -Shin Yeh Taiwanese Cuisine Original Restaurant.

Shin Yeh Shiao Ju

Complimentary seasonal dessert

The New Taste Trend in Taiwanese

Shin Yeh's Shiao Ju brand was launched in 2013. We offer the young generation a mealplace for small gatherings, with Taiwanese cuisine in an atmosphere that is relaxed and trendy. Shiao Ju chefs have been in kitchens cooking Taiwanese since they were young apprentices, so they have a deep understanding of this food. The skill and technology are first-rate. Their food creations come from daily life moments of inspiration. Expressed through different sauces and techniques, the modern flavors are both traditionally authentic and creative. For example, the traditional dish of braised pork feet becomes 3 cups (of special sauces) Q (Chewy) Pig's Feet. And the Mandarin name for Preserved Egg with Green Pepper, "Ching Long Pipi Tswah" is a borrowed sound-alike of the true name in Taiwanese. A standard favorite is "Spicy Hot and Sour Soup with Rice Crackers". Then there is our own version "Treasure Island (Taiwan) Shaved Ice". By design, the cuisine selection, matching of dishes, tastes and budget are all part of the experience our guests will enjoy. Friends or even three cross-generations of family can share a good time and smiles as they dine in a relaxed and comfortable environment!

Social Place

Complimentary snack

Eye-catching modern-day teahouse with tasty dishes

A completely new and novel concept, Social Place re-thinks the traditions of Hong Kong teahouses and Cantonese restaurants. It combines Hong Kong Dim Sum with Szechuan and Jiansu snack plates. It uses cooking techniques straight from Canton, boldly blending them into specialties from North and South China. It goes so far as to offer delicacies with South Asian flavors as well. Social Place sharply breaks from traditional Chinese cooking methods, and zips across national borders. The overall emphasis is in two areas: taste and visual impact, both driven by radical innovation. Their Hong Kong Dim Sum, with its quaint charm and incredible number of variations, has become something of a food supermodel, as amazed diners snap photos and share online. This has turned Social Place into a social hotspot. It's a new wave restaurant that challenges teahouse tradition, and makes your restaurant dining interesting and active. Come and enjoy!

Slack Season

Complimentary dessert

The story began in 1895 with a fisherman with the surname Hong whose family migrated to Fucheng from China's Zhangzhou. He made a living catching fish. The sea is usually very rough between the Tomb-sweeping Festival and the Mid-Autumn Festival each year so this became known as the "Slack Season" because the fishermen couldn't go out to sea. To make a living during the slack season, Hong began selling noodles. His noodles had a unique taste and were quite popular so he eventually began selling them full-time. In the beginning, he carried his noodles on shoulder poles and sold them in the streets, so he named it "Du Hsiao Yueh (Meaning Slack Season) Dan Zai Noodles".

The Advocate of Taiwanese Cuisine

Ms. Shen Yun-Ying, the founder of Green Leaf Taiwanese Cuisine Restaurant, noticed that Taiwanese cuisine was absent from traditional Chinese dishes. Therefore, she wanted to promote authentic Taiwanese cuisine, a mild yet flavorful cuisine that is based on a combination of various culinary styles. Ms. Shen chose the Beitou banquet-style recipes as the basis of her Taiwanese cuisine and opened the very first Taiwanese cuisine restaurant-Green Leaf Taiwanese Cuisine Restaurant, which served seasonal Taiwanese dishes. The restaurant provides the most authentic and traditional Taiwanese cuisine. It's simple yet distinctly homey flavor fascinates every customer. In addition, it has continuously developed new recipes, enriching Taiwanese cuisine with more than 200 tasty dishes, each of which tells its own story.

KUAICHE
快車肉乾

KUAICHE

Enjoy 5% off

KUAICHE originated from Taipei's Nanmen market, providing affordable and high-quality Taiwanese specialty delicacies. The 3-decade old shop has stood the test of time and inherited the most memorable Taiwanese tastes and flavors. The almond-flavored crisp jerky that is only 0.01 cm thick and the signature 1cm thick pork jerky are marinated in 180-day old traditional soy sauce based on recipe handed down the generations. Roasted at high temperature after vacuum massage, the jerky's thickness, wellness and color are all part of the consideration, so cooking it to perfection has become a specialized technique. This definitely makes for a present for friends and relatives.
